CO's Corner

Hello,

This newsletter is late because my inputs were late....sorry about that.

Well, we're at about the ½ way point for the deployment. This is dependant upon whether or not we get extended. We hope to know pretty soon and we'll get that out as soon as we know. I know a lot of us are looking to start making some summer plans so we can shop around for the good deals.

We're back on the ship a little earlier than planned. We got some tasking and were told to reload back onto the boat. As it turned out, that tasking got cancelled once we were back aboard but the timing wasn't worth us offloading again into Kuwait. Also, we didn't have a say in the matter.

Other than that, things are going well. The ACE flew a lot in Kuwait and the Control Group Marines got some great training as well. The S shops also kept very busy keeping track of people, logging the flights, getting us into and out of Kuwait and keeping the computers running despite some less than perfect computer systems and conditions.

That's about it from the edge of the empire. Keep us in your prayers as we keep you in ours.

SgtMaj Sounds Off:

Hello SeaElk Family,

Happy Valentine's Day to you all! The first 3 months of this deployment went by in a flash. While in Kuwait, the Marines had the opportunity to exercise their skills in an environment that was conducive to training. Kuwait also provided the Marines the opportunity to leave the shipboard lifestyle for an area with more space to maneuver. The availability of phone lines, internet, and shifting from a 300 man room to a 6 man rooms gave the moral of the Marines a significant boost.

What's next? I really don't know but our Marines are prepared to execute any order given. Our Marines never cease to amaze me with their willingness to get the mission accomplished, I am extremely proud of their performance as I am sure you are as well.

Entering the month of February is considered a milestone in our deployment. Before you know it, we'll be entering the month of March and the time will definitely fly. If you have not already done so, now is the time to start working or completing all of the special projects. We are definitely looking forward to returning home to assist with the "Honey do lists".

Semper Fidelis,
SgtMaj Harrell

Message from XO:

Marines and Family Members of HMM-166 (REIN),

January was a very busy month with the majority of the ACE moving ashore for some much needed sustainment training at Camp Buehring, Kuwait. Everyone enjoyed getting their feet back on dry land and walking around in the fresh air for just about a month. Marine Air Control Group accomplished some great ground training while the Aircrew completed proficiency and advancement training.

The Green Bean Coffee house on base along with Starbucks helped everyone spend some of that money that has been burning a hole in everyone's pocket. Some of the Marines also got to enjoy a USO visit from Scarlett Johansson and a concert by Kix Brooks from Brooks and Dunn.

Our CH-53s supported the President's visit to the United Arab Emirates while the Harriers stayed aboard ship to conduct training and support OIF missions into Iraq.

The entire squadron has moved back on to the Tarawa, and we are currently conducting training and operations throughout the Arabian Gulf and the Gulf of Oman. Everyone is looking forward to our next liberty port whatever that may be.

The cutoff date for submitting names for the Tiger Cruise was 15 February. We have received approximately 75 names for Tigers that will be joining us. The submitted names are listed in the back of this newsletter. Please let your Marine know, as soon as possible, if an expected Tiger's name is not on the list. The Tigers should be receiving a medical questionnaire along with more detailed planning information from the MEU Chaplain in the near future.

Continued thanks for your dedication and sacrifice. Mission First, Marines Always.

Semper Fi,
LtCol Shawn W. McKee
Executive Officer HMM-166 (Rein)

S-1 Administration:

Greetings SeaElk Marines and families,

February marks the middle of the deployment and ends the busiest month of the deployment to date. January was eventful as the squadron celebrated the New Year and conducted its longest and most in-depth training evolution at Udairi Army Airfield in Kuwait.

While at Udairi, the Administrative shop had an opportunity to conduct combat skills training. Cpl Dubois spent several days with the MWSS Detachment conducting convoy training and Sgt Simeona, Sgt Villenada, and LCpl Montgomery honed their combat skills conducting realistic urban training at Udairi's training range facilities. Also, congratulations to LCpl Montgomery, who was promoted on the first of February.

Additionally, the pilots in the Administrative shop were challenged in the desert training routes and landing zones available to train. Capt Maurer was one of the busiest pilots in the squadron, instructing initial training flights almost every time he flew. Captain Harvey and Captain Venci completed most of their Aircraft Commander Qualification flights and will soon look forward to signing for an aircraft for the first time in the near future.

Capt Venci and 1stLt Friday initiated a T-shirt contest that yielded several talented entries from the very artistic to humorous to outright strange; a winning entry has already been selected and the squadron can soon look forward to purchasing a newly designed T-shirt.

Finally, the month closed with the long-awaited return of GySgt Huerta, who has been assisting the squadron from Miramar since the squadron's departure – welcome aboard, Gunny!

Stay safe and enjoy the winter season.

Major Andrew P. "Lou" Albano
HMM-166 (Rein) Administrative Officer

S-4 SUPPORT:

Hello again from the S-4/S-6 Shop! I hope everyone's New Year has been fortuitous so far. In the month of January, the S-4/S-6 got to spend New Year's Eve and day in Bahrain. I think for many of the Marines, they got a little taste of home via the U.S. Navy Base in Bahrain. A little taste of Starbucks can go a long way to helping out moral. At the end of the first week of January, the S-4/S-6 shop got put to the test. The S-4 shop had to move all of HMM-166(REIN) from the ship to Kuwait (Camp Beuhring). The process took about 5 days to fly 22 helicopters, over 350 Marines and their personal baggage, and all of the equipment required to support HMM-166 (REIN) ashore. The Marines in the S-4 performed excellent and were nothing but professionals while executing the mission. The whole shop came together to help out in anyway they could to include all of the S-6 Marines and the MWSS Detachment. After we got ashore in Kuwait, S-4/S-6/MWSS went to work right away to support the squadron. SSgt Alvarez worked to coordinate transportation, billeting, and work spaces for the entire squadron. Cpl Martin and LCpl Grissom ensured all of our squadron's equipment moved from the coast of Kuwait inland to Camp Beuhring. Cpl Spillane, Cpl Knopes, and PFC Burton helped SSgt Alvarez with coordination at Camp Beuhring. The S-6 Marines got computers from HMM-166(REIN) set-up on three different networks. The Army Network that was already established at Camp Beuhring, the VSWAN (kind of a wireless based network connected to the 11th MEU), and satellite based system. Cpl Lyman, LCpl Hamm, and LCpl Taylor worked feverishly to support HMM-166(REIN) and ensured that each system was up and running all hours of the day. As for my MWSS Marines, the Jack-of-All-Trades Marines, they helped out in anyway that they could like true professionals due to the fact that not all of the MWSS Marines could do the job that they were trained for. The Bulk Fuelers worked in the fuel pits with the civilian contractors to fuel aircraft. The rest of the detachment ended up helping out by assisting SSgt Alvarez with various tasks and driving the buses that provided transportation for the squadron to and from the airfield, meals, and various locations on the base. In addition, all of the Marines received some form of various training to keep up their war fighting skills as Marines. And last but not least, I have my Marines that I kept on the USS Tarawa to support the AV-8B detachment who supported Operation Iraqi Freedom from the ship. Capt Hodgins took charge of Sgt King (MWSS-cook), Cpl Bowyer(S-4), Cpl Bozeman(S-6), and supported the AV-8B detachment flawlessly. Overall, the S-4/S-6 and MWSS Detachment should be congratulated for the outstanding job they did while in Kuwait and on the USS Tarawa during the month of January. I guess I cannot say enough of how proud the families of these Marines should be for the great work they do everyday.

Semper Fidelis
Major Joseph S. Lee, HMM-166 (REIN) Logistics Officer

DEPARTMENT OF SAFTY AND STANDARDIZATION:

The year was off to a rolling start for the Department of Safety and Standardization. After the New Year's holiday spent in Bahrain, the squadron was gearing up for a "dirt detachment" to Udairi Army Airfield in Kuwait with the entire ACE working from this desert shore base. Operations in unfamiliar areas require Pre-Deployment Site Surveys, and ORM assessments from our department, and this trip was no different. In addition to the ORM evaluation and Site Survey, it was also time for the post holiday 'Back in The Saddle' Safety Stand Down. The Safety Department took advantage of the shore based facilities offered at the airfield, and presented a safety stand down to the entire squadron that covered such diverse topics as: Desert Survival, Weapons Safety, Desert Night Flight CRM, Brown Out Landing CRM, Local Camp Safety Procedures, and several Desert Mishap Reviews. In addition, our Flight Surgeon, Lt Ian Laughlin presented some informative briefs on Cumulative Fatigue Effects, and Spatial Disorientation and our ASO Capt Daryl Sabourin presented a review of the squadron's latest Safety Climate Assessment. These classes were particularly appropriate as the entire squadron was about to engage in a much more robust operational tempo where the effects of fatigue could impact the Marines' readiness, and the pilots and aircrew were about to start operating in the night time desert environment, a challenging place to fly, which has claimed many lives through unrecognized spatial disorientation. The classes were well received and taken to heart by the pilots and aircrew. Prior to commencing flight training operations in Kuwait, department members 1stLt DeMars and 1stLt Sherwood, aided by 1stLt Friday, created area hazard charts for pilots to use in the planning of their missions. During this period ashore several DOSS members completed flight leadership qualifications and individual flight qualifications. Capt Sabourin qualified as a Terrain Flight Instructor, 1st Lieutenants DeMars and Friday completed their Helicopter Aircraft Commander Training flights. At the end of the month when an unexpected early backload of the entire ACE to ESG shipping ensued, the Safety Department was ready, and took the quick transition in stride.

A WORD FROM THE FRO:

Greetings from your Family Readiness Officer,

Hopefully when this newsletter reaches you, we will all be marking off the half way mark of our deployment. We are all waiting on pins and needles in anticipation of word concerning a possible extension. So far the official word still has us on schedule for 6 month deployment however; the command guidance has always been to plan on 7 to 9 months.

For us here on the boat the time seemed to move pretty quickly as we were all very busy in Kuwait conducting some much needed training. Many of the new pilots in the squadron completed major steps in becoming Aircraft Commanders. Quite a few other pilots also earned more advanced flight leadership qualifications such as Section Lead and Division Lead. With all the flight hours maintenance was on their toes working long hours every day to keep the aircraft ready for flight. Being on land in Kuwait gave us much more freedom to conduct an aggressive training plan.

Unloading the entire squadron ashore also gave us all a nice break from life on the boat. We were able take in some USO entertainment, eat fast food, and stretch our legs everyday as we walked a dry land. I wouldn't say it felt like liberty with all the long hours of training, but it was a nice break. We're all hoping that soon we will have a real liberty call and much anticipated time off.

Included in this newsletter is the list of Tigers register for the cruise at the end of the deployment. We will have further information and medical screening kits for you soon. The MEU is working to negotiate a group rate at hotels in Hawaii for anyone coming out for the cruise. As we gather further information about specific dates and requirement, we will forward them to you through your Marines and via email. We still don't have very much information because our timeline for deployment is still up in the air. For right now, don't buy any airline tickets or reserve any hotel rooms. We will let you know when it's safe to do so.

Hopefully soon we will have some news for you all about when we're coming home. Until then, keep us in your thoughts and prayers and know that our careers would be much more difficult without you at home supporting us.

Operations Department:

Having cherished the time ashore and the chance to celebrate New Year's in Bahrain, we restocked with parts and victuals and headed back out to sea for the short transit up to Kuwait. The whole of the MEU disembarked in Kuwait, bar the fast jet gang who were denied access ashore and, oh yes, the small task for the CH-53 detachment to support the President of The United States in the UAE. This was a late notice tasking, which the 53 guys and gals rolled into and took within their stride; no signed autographs unfortunately. The remainder disembarked in Kuwait and headed for Udairi (you-dar-re) Army Airfield and the associated Camp Buehring (bewr-ring). All were happy to hit the ground again and appreciate the ability to walk about in the sunlight, even if the temperature was a little chillier than SOCAL!

The sand storms and winter showers were to hamper training occasionally; however, without the restrictive environment that is imposed on us while embarked, a great deal more money has been made.

The training commenced in earnest and maintained an extremely busy pace throughout the month with only a couple of maintenance days and a single day off since arriving. Day and night flights occurred almost everyday of the week though the crawl, walk, run principle was in effect at all times. As we reach the end of the month all Type, Model, Series (TMR) have made great gains, countless Xs (new qualifications) achieved to include section and division leaders: Captains Celusta, Boksanske, Thornhill, Ferrari, Johnson, Ransom, and Kumar all passed with flying colors. We continue to press with further qualifications, even as the Low Light period has arrived. Stones have been thrown at the seagull, also known as Major Fitzpatrick, to get him airborne on these scary dark nights.

S-3 Clerks continue without complaint or murmur, enjoying the freedom provided by being ashore. The busy flying schedule has kept them busy with the NAVFLIRS and log books. Their presence has been noticed down at the gym on a regular basis; obviously working on those summer beach physiques.

Overall, the ACE had a very busy and highly productive month. We look forward to the Super Bowl and a day off. Go Pats!

MAINTENANCE DEPARTMENT:

The month of January was a challenging time for the Maintenance Department. The squadron flew off the USS Tarawa to conduct training in Kuwait and all the helicopters made it ashore. Three weeks later the MEU was ordered back aboard the ship and once again that Herculean efforts of the maintenance Marines made that happen.

Regardless of the mission, tasking and challenges we have faced as a squadron the Maintenance Marines have responded and have exceeded expectations.

Congratulations to Master Sergeant Kerr who was promoted on 1 Jan 08 as well as to LCpl Putnam who was selected as the 11th MEU Marine of the quarter.

New Parent Support Program
858) 577-9812 • Bldg. 2273 • Mon-Fri (8am-4pm)

There is nothing more exciting and challenging than becoming a parent. To assist you at this time, the Marine Corps offers, free of charge, the services of the New Parent Support Program. Our support system serves Marine Corps families with children age five and under. This free, voluntary program has been available at 17 Marine Corps bases all over the world since 1993. In our program, licensed clinical social workers, marriage and family therapists and registered nurses provide classes and support to our Marine families who are expecting and/or have a child 5 years or under. Such classes include:

- Baby Boot Camp - For couples and single expectant moms and dads
- Mom's Basic Training - Specifically directed toward our active duty expectant moms

Classes for parents already with children include:

- Successful Parenting
- Play Morning

Our social workers, Marriage and Family Therapist (MFTs) and nurses also provide one-on-one support to families in their homes. All of our home visitors are highly qualified and eager to help in any way they can. They have extensive referral information regarding other classes and support programs such as WIC, Lamaze, food programs and counseling to name just a few.

Educational Benefits

➤ Studies prove that the most important thing adults can do in preparing young children for success in school is to read aloud with them.

UNITED THROUGH READING® Update

Amid the clangs, whistles, and other customary sounds you would expect onboard the USS Tarawa; a new sound is being heard. It is the sound of Marines reading to their children though they are thousands of miles away. The USS Tarawa are participating in United Reading, which provides deployed Active Duty personnel the opportunity to read stories aloud on videotape to the special children in their lives back home.

Marines either select a book from the ship's onboard library or read a book they have packed with them. They are videotaped reading the book, and then the tape (and book if owned by the Marine) is sent home to the child who can watch and follow along with a copy of the book. One of the best parts of this program is the opportunity for your child to view the tape over and over again. According to research, reading aloud has been shown to be the single best predictor in a child's future academic success. Encourage your Marine to participate in United Through Reading and bring their face and voice into your home even when they can't be there. Share with your United Through Reading Homefront coordinator Vanessa Lee your family's reactions to your first video!

MAKE SURE YOUR MARINE SIGNS-UP EARLY BECAUSE SLOTS ARE FILLING UP FAST!!

For those who have not had time to schedule a recording, the USS Tarawa is still accepting reservations. Reading a story about Easter, spring and homecomings would be a great idea. There are plenty of books to choose from! Your child will watch you over and over again and will be comforted!

Kid's Valentine's Party

Everyone busy making cards and decorating their bags.

Even the youngest SeaElk are finding ways to have fun.

Let's gather around for a Valentine story!

"I love making Valentines for my Daddy!"

"Rose" Party at Jamie Rhodes' House

Putting together roses for our wonderful spouses to give out at the Mid-Deployment Brief.
